

Topical Index

Use this index to identify and locate sessions by topic. Sessions are divided by association affiliation (AAEA, WAEA, or CAES), then by topic and listed with the session number. For more information, use the session numbers to find the full description of the session in the Concurrent Sessions section. The times listed for the posters (sessions numbered with an "M" or a "T") designate the attended poster time. The posters remain on display during the hours Exhibit Hall A is open.

Farm Foundation

Since 1933, Farm Foundation has been a CATALYST for agriculture, the food system and rural communities, bringing public and private decision makers together to identify issues and exchange ideas on options to address those issues. Farm Foundation brings people together for productive discussions to stimulate thinking, challenge norms, promote new professional relationships and develop options for new approaches.

Focused in the areas of environmental and natural resources, rural community viability, new technologies, globalization, consumer issues and the role of agricultural institutions, Farm Foundation's programs:

- Identify forces of change that will shape the future.
- Stimulate education and research that increase human capital and build knowledge on the forces of change and evolving issues.
- Foster informed dialogue and build networks to increase understanding and move toward consensus on important economic issues and public policies.
- Encourage public and private institutions to communicate to the media and the public about issues facing agriculture and rural communities.

At a time when advocacy or politics are attached to most every information product, Farm Foundation remains an objective organization providing analysis on economic and public policy issues.

Constructive dialogue • Objective analysis • Innovative ideas
