2025 AAEA FAMPS Poster Competition

FAMPS proposes to host a poster session at the 2025 Annual Meeting, similar to the one hosted at 2024 meeting. The objective of the poster session is to provide a forum for researchers with more limited professional networks, like graduate students and beginning faculty, to be recognized for innovative and high-quality research in poster sessions. These researchers might be less likely to participate in track sessions, and thus attend the annual meeting, than researchers with stronger professional networks. This recognition could also be helpful to some researchers at the beginning stages of their career.

The details for the poster session are the following:

- FAMPS will provide three awards:
 - Two (2) $250 prizes for the best posters in which the lead author is a graduate student
 - One (1) $250 prize for the best poster in which the lead author has a doctorate degree
- Requirements: The lead author for each submission must be a FAMPS member and must attend the 2025 AAEA & WAEA Joint Annual Meeting in-person.
- Submissions: AAEA will send notifications of accepted posters in March. Once this occurs, FAMPS will communicate in late March/early April to those with accepted posters they can participate in the FAMPS poster contest.
- Judging: FAMPS leadership will identify three researchers to judge the competition.
- Logistics: The poster competition judging will occur on Monday during the lunch break from 11:30am – 1:00pm in the poster hall. Posters accepted in the FAMPS competition will have a symbol/tag on their poster board.

The deadline to apply is May 30, 2025.

GSS & C-FARE 2025 Policy Communications Competition

In today's market, graduate students may seek careers where they are tasked with evaluating policy issues and effectively communicating their results to policymakers and other stakeholders. Therefore, the Graduate Student Section (GSS) and Council on Food, Agricultural & Resource Economics (C-FARE) partner for the 5th Annual Policy Communications Competition. This competition provides graduate students with an opportunity to gain experience in both written and verbal policy communication.

Entries can be based on the graduate student's ongoing research. They should address a pressing, relevant policy issue relating to the 2025 Policy Communications Competition theme at the local, state, or federal levels.

2025 Competition Theme

The farm bill is a package of legislation updated by Congress every five years. As the 2018 Farm Bill expires in 2023, Congress has begun negotiating the next Bill. We identify five main topics from the USDA 2023 Budget Summary that tie into critical issues policymakers must consider when drafting the farm bill. These include:

1. Farm Production and Conservation
2. Trade and Foreign Agricultural Affairs
3. Climate Change and Farmers
4. Rural Development
5. Food and Nutrition Security

Policy briefs for the 2025 Policy Communications Competition should relate to one or more of these five themes.

Objectives for Participants

- Evaluate a relevant agricultural, food, or resource policy issue relating to the 2025 Policy Competition theme at the local, state, or federal level.
- Provide written and verbal communication that addresses a policy-relevant research question clearly, and concisely.

Participant Eligibility

Graduate students must be a member of the GSS with a graduation date of Fall 2025 or later. They should be conducting research in agricultural economics, resource economics, regional development, or a related field.

Competition Information

The competition will consist of two rounds. Participants must submit a typed policy brief in the first round, not to exceed two pages (double spaced, 12-point font, including references, figures, and graphics). This document should summarize the background and current status of the issue, key facts (i.e., benefits and costs of government programs or project alternatives), findings, and conclusions. The participant's job is not to convince the policymaker to take a particular position or vote a certain way but rather to evaluate, gather, and present the necessary information to make an informed decision on the issue.

The second round of the competition will consist of an oral presentation by select finalists. Within the presentation, which is not to exceed 10 minutes in length, the student should detail the specifics of the policy issue and identify additional key facts and findings surrounding the topic. An effective presentation will complement the written policy brief and should be easily accessible for policymakers.

Preliminary Timeline

Friday, June 20, 2025: Registration and policy brief due

Friday, July 11, 2025: Finalists announced

Sunday, July 27, 2025: Finalists present at the 2025 AAEA & WAEA Joint Annual Meeting in Denver, Colorado

The judges will evaluate presentations using a grading rubric shared with selected finalists. The selection of the finalists will be based on the material submitted and the criteria listed below. Finalists will be notified by July 11, 2025.

Criteria for Selecting Finalists

1. The participant clearly defines the problem and discusses the feasibility of the policy ideas. The participant provides background and supporting research on the topic, including areas of government failures or unintended consequences, and addresses the proper target audience.
2. The participant integrates knowledge and research from various sources and provides a clear, concise summary of the issue.
3. The participant uses formal but non–technical language that is easily accessible to policymakers, and their brief is free of grammatical mistakes.
4. The policy brief uses appropriate formatting (proper headings, length no more than two pages, proper citation, ordered appearance, etc.).

The editor will manage submitted manuscripts containing original research results addressing real-world problems with sound research approaches and/or have strong policy relevance within the subject matter of the journal. The degree to which the candidate's expertise complements that of the continuing editors will be considered in the selection process. AAEA is particularly interested in candidates who will bring ideas and innovations to help AEPP further its mission.

Submitted articles will meet the normal standards for scholarly publication but should also be accessible to the broader audience of agricultural and applied economists working outside academia. Submitted articles should emphasize one or more of the following: (a) practical implications for public policy; (b) clarification of research implications to maximize accessibility and cross-fertilization across specific areas of research; (c) empirical comparison of competing theories, explanations, and approaches that can refine future research; and (d) development of fruitful directions for future research. Additional information about AEPP, its policies, and mission is available at www.aaea.org/publications/aepp.

The editor will work with an editorial team comprised of two other Submitted Article Editors and the Managing Editor to administer the manuscript review process. The Submitted Article Editors are responsible for day-to-day tasks related to submitted articles, assist with the development of the special issues, and revise editorial policy. The AEPP editorial process employs an online submission systems for manuscripts and exchanges between editors and reviewers. The system tracks manuscripts through submission, review, and editorial decisions. Authors can also query this system for e-mail reports on the status in the editorial process of a submitted manuscript. The editors also oversee the work of Wiley in preparing accepted articles for publication.

The new editor should be prepared to begin on January 1, 2026. There may be some training and coordination work starting prior to the start date. Applications should include (1) a statement of editorial philosophy and ideas for furthering the journal's goals, (2) an indication of the candidate's principal areas of expertise to support the AEPP's mission, (3) a curriculum vitae, and (4) a statement of administrative and financial support to be provided by the host institution. AAEA provides financial assistance to defray some portion of the editor's time and most expenses. Applications should be sent electronically as one PDF-file to Allison Ware, the Senior Communications & Membership Manager, at aware@aaea.org by April 1, 2025. Decisions will be made by the AAEA Board by June 2025. Third-party nominations of potentially interested candidates who can then be solicited for their materials are also welcome.

Risk and Risk Management in the Agricultural Economy

November 21, 2025 — Cambridge, MA

To promote research on the risks that are borne by individuals and firms in the agricultural sector, and on the tools that are available to manage these risks, the National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER), with the support of the Economic Research Service at the US Department of Agriculture, will convene a research conference in Cambridge, MA on Friday, November 21, 2025. The conference will be organized by Barry Goodwin (North Carolina State University) and Tatyana Deryugina (University of Illinois and NBER).

The organizers will consider submissions of complete, or nearly complete, papers that will be ready to present by November 2025. They welcome empirical and theoretical research, as well as papers by scholars who are early in their careers and who are not NBER affiliates. If any members of the research team have ties to the agricultural industry or other potential conflicts of interest, those ties should be disclosed on the first page of the submission. The program will prioritize research on the US food and farm economy.

To be considered for inclusion on the program, papers must be uploaded by midnight (EDT) on Tuesday, August 12, 2025 via the following link:

<https://conference.nber.org/confs submit/backend/cfp?id=AEf25>

Please feel free to share this call for papers widely with any researchers who might be working on projects that are suitable for presentation.

Please do not submit papers that have been accepted for publication and will be published by November 2025, and be aware that NBER papers may not make policy recommendations or offer normative judgements on policy. Authors chosen to present papers will be notified in early September. The NBER will cover hotel and economy-class conference travel for up to two authors per paper. Questions about this conference may be addressed to confer@nber.org.
