AAEA Health and CWAE Track Session: Women's Empowerment and Global Health

August 11, 1:30-3:00 pm PST-----

This session will bring together experts to present research on intersections of women's empowerment and global health. The speakers will discuss findings that enhance the understanding of how the empowerment of women may have important implications for global health settings. The session includes a keynote address on women's empowerment and global health and presentations on the implications of empowerment or disempowerment on women's and children's nutrition as well as risky health behaviors.
