

Extension Section Livestock Outlook

Organizer: James Robb, Livestock Marketing Information Center

Program Description: This organized symposium will focus on the livestock situation and outlook. The Extension Outlook symposia have been an integral part of the AAEE meetings for more than two decades. Presenters will explore the current trends in livestock production, trade, domestic supplies, demand factors, and price and profitability prospects for the coming year. Session Rationale (for review purposes only) : The livestock outlook section is part of an overall review of outlook provided by the Extension Section to members of the AAEE. Presentations will focus on hogs, cattle, dairy and poultry. They will explore the current trends in livestock production, trade, domestic supplies, demand factors, and price and profitability prospects for the coming year.